

What are Embedded Systems?

Embedded systems are like the brains of everyday gadgets, they are specialized devices that are tucked into devices and they make them smart and responsive. They handle tasks like making the environment, making decisions, and controlling actions. An arduino is an example of embedded systems.